

information on learning styles, study techniques and test-taking skills. Lectures are given by KCUMB faculty and laboratory activities are also introduced. Additionally, practice quizzes and a simulated exam help prepare students for challenging medical school tests.

Supplemental Instruction Program

The Supplemental Instruction Program provides tutoring at no cost to KCUMB students. All KCUMB students are encouraged to receive tutoring. In the College of Osteopathic Medicine, tutoring is available for the practical or hands-on curriculum. This includes pathology, anatomy and osteopathic manipulative medicine. For students in the College of Biosciences, tutoring is available for lecture-based material. Request forms can be completed at the front desk of Leonard Smith Hall.

Students who wish to participate in the Supplemental Instruction program as tutors may apply during the winter semester. Those are paid positions. Selection is primarily based on prior academic performance. Students choose to work as tutors for a variety of reasons. These include the fun of teaching and because it helps with preparation for Board exams

Board Preparation

The Department of Learning Enhancement is available to answer questions about board preparation. There are several common questions: When should I study? How do I make a study schedule? What books or other materials should I use? How do I know when I'm ready to take the exam? Workshops and individual meetings are offered to answer these common questions. Additionally, the department works closely with the elected second year board prep representative to stay current with the latest changes.
